Web-Based Expert Systems Are on the Way: Java - Based Web Delivery

functionality of the browser. However, Java is a very rapidly evolving language, with even the latest versions of Web browsers not supporting it's full scope. Most browsers in use are older and only support a small Java subset. This does not mean that Java applet will not run, but that whatever functionality is required by the applets that is not on the client's browser, is downloaded off the server.
